

On the next page you will find a printout labeled "APPLICATION FOR DISCIPLESHIP."
This page has one scenario for its presentation and purpose:

Welcome to our job fair. There are many jobs and interviews available today, so let's just be sure that you are in the right room. Are you all here to apply for the job of disciple? If so, you are in the right room. If not, please return to the information booth near the entry doors where they can direct you to the room you want to be in.

Because there are so many of you applying, we decided to start with a written application which may help you to understand some aspects of being a disciple. After filling out the application, we are asking you to tally your own score and then quietly wait for further instructions.

(Pass out forms, pencils, etc. and wait.)

Everyone seems to have completed their forms, so let's see how your answers add up.
Raise your hand if you answered "yes" 30 or more times.
Raise your hand if you answered "no" 30 or more times.

Is anyone discouraged about their score on this application? I hope not, because there is really only one question that matters when it comes to being a disciple. Everything on this application has been faced in real life by a disciple. But, there is only one question on this application that shows that you qualify for being a disciple. Do you know what that one question is?

(Do you want to know more about God?)

Thank you for participating in this interview. Your next step is: ???
